Student Report - Prim + Earth Year 3

Comments

Prim and Earth are enthusiastic, confident, and always keen to use English in the classroom. Their cheerful energy makes them a pleasure to teach, and their progress has been exceptional. They have shown strong participation in warm-up games and classroom discussions, often surprising everyone with how quickly they pick up new words and phrases.. We are currently concentrating on speaking activities related to everyday situations, which they are engaging with positively and enthusiastically.

English – Speaking & Listening

In English, Prim and Earth’s learning focus has been on vocabulary development, pronunciation, basic sentence structures, and conversation. These skills are practiced through repetition and roleplay, and they are both quick to grasp new concepts and apply them. They are eager to speak and actively engage in class discussions, often showing noticeable improvement from one lesson to the next. They demonstrate a growing ability to use new vocabulary appropriately. Moving forward, they are encouraged to keep speaking in full sentences to build fluency and increase their overall word count, while continuing to reinforce their already rapid progress.

Reading & Phonics

In reading and phonics, Prim and Earth have been working on decoding words with more than one syllable and improving recognition of common sight words. They display strong foundational phonics skills and are quickly becoming more confident and accurate readers. They are willing to read aloud, often doing so with improved clarity and confidence each week. To continue progressing, they should focus on maintaining their reading accuracy and fluency while gradually tackling more complex words. Continued phonics practice at home will further accelerate their already fast-paced improvement.

Grammar & Writing

Prim and Earth’s current grammar and writing focus has been on understanding and using verbs, nouns, adjectives, and pronouns, as well as developing clear sentence structure. They are beginning to demonstrate awareness of grammatical elements and can identify parts of speech within sentences. Writing tasks are completed with enthusiasm, and their ability to write accurately is improving quickly. To improve further, they should continue reviewing grammar rules and applying them in their written work, aiming for accuracy, variety, and a steady increase in sentence complexity.

Personal Expression & Conversation

Prim and Earth enjoy expressing themselves by talking about their hobbies, interests, and everyday experiences. This approach helps to build their confidence in speaking and supports fluency in natural, conversational English. They respond very well to this area, showing enthusiasm and growing confidence each lesson. They are never shy to speak and are becoming increasingly skilled at using new vocabulary in context. To make further progress, they are encouraged to keep participating actively and to focus on applying new words and sentence patterns in real-life situations.

Overall Strengths

Prim and Earth enjoy studying and bring a lot of positive energy to every session. They participate actively and confidently, showing strong interest in reading, speaking, and completing classroom activities. Their exceptional speed of improvement in English sets them apart, as they adapt to new concepts and skills with ease. Their punctuality and readiness to learn contribute to a productive classroom environment. They are consistently responsive to instructions and quick to succeed in new activities.

Recommendations for Improvement

Prim and Earth should continue practicing speaking in full sentences, as this will help them develop fluency and refine their spoken English even further. They should keep building on their excellent start to the course, maintain focus during lessons, and make the most of their quick learning abilities by challenging themselves with new vocabulary and sentence structures. Previewing upcoming lessons and practicing language in everyday contexts will help sustain and enhance their already impressive rate of progress.
